TALLAHASSEE, FL – Registration for the 2023 session of the Southeast CUNA Management School is now open. The school, hosted by Southeast Regional Credit Union Schools (SRCUS), meets June 18 - 23, 2023 at the University of Georgia Center for Continuing Education and Hotel in Athens, Georgia.

Southeast CUNA Management School is the premier learning opportunity for credit union professionals in the southeast, providing students with the skills and knowledge to meet today's leadership challenges. Over the course of this three-year program, students receive advanced academic instruction on a variety of topics including management, leadership, and financial analysis. Students also apply the knowledge gained from the on-site sessions to projects that require strategic analysis of their credit unions and research of relevant issues facing the credit union industry.

Upon successful completion of the program, students receive a graduation diploma issued in conjunction with the University of Georgia Center for Continuing Education. Graduation from Southeast CUNA Management School is recognized throughout the credit union industry as a prestigious mark of achievement.

"SRCUS is an incredibly valuable experience for leaders in the credit union space. Over the course of three years, you learn so much about the industry, your credit union and yourself," said Britney Bailey from Delta Community Credit Union. "The curriculum truly prepares students to run the business -- and the connections, friendships and resources established are invaluable and ones you will maintain for years to come. It is hard work, but immediately actionable and worth the effort!"
