America's Credit Union Museum Announces New Board Members

Manchester, New Hampshire – America's Credit Union Museum, a cornerstone of the credit union movement, is pleased to announce the addition of three esteemed individuals to the museum's Board of Directors.

Bringing a deep well of knowledge and experience in the credit union industry, these outstanding individuals are dedicated to guiding America's Credit Union Museum toward continued success in the years ahead.

The Museum is proud to welcome the following individuals to its Board of Directors:

- Susan Mitchell, CEO of Mitchell, Stankovic, and Associates
- Renee Sattiewhite, President and CEO of African American Credit Union Coalition
- Jill Tomalin, Executive Vice President and Chief of Staff of America's Credit Unions

"We are thrilled to welcome our two newly elected board members. Their leadership, expertise, and commitment will strengthen our mission as we continue to shape the future of the Museum," expressed Stephanie Smith, America's Credit Union Museum Executive Director.

The inclusion of these new board members strengthens the Museum's leadership and introduces new viewpoints that will enhance the organization.

"On behalf of the entire board, I am excited to welcome our new board members," said Kristi Arrington, America's Credit Union Museum Board Chair and Vice President of Growth by Design. "Their diverse backgrounds and varied experiences will undoubtedly enhance our efforts as we continue to advance the Museum."
